

CONTENTS

Illustrations	xi
Preface	xvii
Introduction.	xxi
Thailand and "Democracy".	xxi
The coup d'etat of 23 February 1991.	xxiii
The organisation of the monograph.	xxiv
Acknowledgements.	xxv
Chapter 1 The First Anand Interim Government and The National Peace Keeping Council	1
Early Moves by the NPKC.	1
The formation of a Cabinet and the National Legislative Assembly.	5
The disbandment of State Enterprise Unions.	7
The telephone contract dispute—Round One.	8
Defence Spending.	9
The World Bank/IMF Meetings, Bangkok 17–19 October.	12
The Government, the "Unusually Wealthy", and the new Constitution.	13
The telephone contract dispute—Round Two.	14
Anand's administration reviewed—The positive side of the ledger.	15
Anand's administration reviewed—The negative side of the ledger.	21
An overall assessment by the Thai people.	23
The 'Achievements' of the NPKC.	24
Chapter 2 The Re-Formation of Political Parties	29
An overview of Thai politics.	29
The political parties.	32
The Chart Thai Party.	32
The New Aspiration Party.	35
The Samakkhi Tham Party.	39
The Social Action Party.	41

The Democrat Party.	44
The Palang Dharma Party.	45
The Solidarity Party.	48
Other Parties.	49
Party Policies.	51
Overview.	54
Chapter 3 Three Vital Issues: Corruption, the Constitu- tion and an Elected Prime Minister	57
The "Unusually Wealthy"	57
The investigation of the "unusually wealthy"	59
The achievements of the Assets Examination Committee.	65
Political manoeuvring and the appeals process.	66
A new constitution	68
The issue of the prime ministership.	84
Chapter 4 Vote-Buying and Electoral Corruption	89
Attempts to minimise vote-buying and electoral fraud.	89
The "Four Musketeers"	90
The Interior Ministry's "Democracy" lectures.	91
The election watchdog committee.	91
Vote-buying and the 22 March election.	94
PollWatch results.	97
The dark side.	98
The Jao Phor	98
Electoral murders.	102
Chapter 5 The March 1992 Elections and the Formation of the Suchinda Government	103
Polls, predictions and the election outcome.	103
Regional patterns.	105
Bangkok	105
The South.	109
The Northeast.	113
The North.	114
The Centre and the East.	116
The regional strengths.	118
Reactions to the election.	118
Forming a government.	119
The Senate.	119

The formation of a coalition.	120
The nomination of a Prime Minister.	120
Reactions to Suchinda's appointment.	123
The formation of a Cabinet.	125
The performance of the Suchinda government.	127
Chapter 6 The Downfall of the Suchinda Government	131
The anti-Suchinda protests.	131
The opening shots.	131
The rally of Monday 20 April.	133
Opposition demands and Chalad's fast continues.	134
The rallies of 4—7 May.	136
The rally of Friday, 8 May.	139
The "mob".	141
The lull between rallies, 9–16 May.	142
Changing the Constitution.	142
Support from the press and the people.	142
The print medium.	143
The propaganda war—the electronic media.	143
Reactions up-country.	146
Other groups.	148
Four days of shame. 17–20 May.	148
The 17 May rally.	148
Monday, 18 May—A State of Emergency.	153
Tuesday, 19 May—Rachadamnoen Avenue "secured", but protests continue.	155
Wednesday, 20 May—Thursday, 21 May. The End of the Beginning?	156
Suchinda resigns.	166
Chapter 7 The Aftermath—Surveying the Wreckage and Forming a New Government	167
The anger of the people.	168
The violence.	168
A walk down Rachadamnoen Avenue, Tuesday, 26 May.	171
The lies.	172
Apportioning the blame.	175
The amnesty.	175
Calls for justice.	176
Reactions from the military.	180
The future role of the military.	181

Attempts to form a new government.	183
Chapter 8 The Knight on a White Horse Returns: The Administration of the Anand II Government and Political Parties Prepare for the September Elections	189
The Anand II Government.	189
Dealing with the Military.	190
State Enterprise Boards and government contracts.	193
The Amnesty.	196
Investigating the deaths of “Black May”.	196
The search for the missing persons.	198
The media.	200
The re-formation of political parties, June–September 1992.	201
The Chart Thai and Samakkhi Tham Parties.	201
The Chart Pattana Party.	203
The New Aspiration Party.	206
The Democrat Party.	206
The Palang Dharma Party.	207
The Social Action Party.	208
The Solidarity Party.	208
The Seritham Party.	208
The Muan Chon, Prachakorn Thai and Rassadorn Parties.	209
Party policies.	210
Chapter 9 The September 1992 Elections—The “Angels” Triumph?	215
Issues in the September elections.	215
PollWatch and democracy support groups.	215
Special provincial campaigns.	221
Vote-buying	222
Murders and “dark influences”.	226
Democracy, Black May and villager attitudes.	229
The Prime Ministership.	230
Campaign strategies.	236
Election images.	238
The “Mirror Assembly”.	241
Poll Predictions and the September Election Outcome.	242
Polls and predictions.	242
Regional battles.	243
The election outcome.	245

Bangkok.	246
The South.	246
The Northeast.	246
The North.	248
The Centre and the East.	250
The regional strengths	251
The old faces and the new.	252
Reactions of the Press and the People.	254

Conclusion—The Chuan Government and the Future for Democracy in Thailand	257
--	------------

The formation of the Chuan Government.	257
Democracy and the International Setting.	258
Thailand and democracy.	260
The way ahead.	266

Notes	271
Glossary	313